Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-20 and 69 (renumbered 1-21) are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The inventive entity persuasively argued (Remark, Page 7, ¶4 through Page 8, ¶1 and the enabling portion of the specification Figs. 3-4 and Page 12, Line 1 through Page 14, Line 17) that none of the prior art of record taken singularly or in combination teaches or suggests communicating a request from the client based browser to the server for a server-side (application residing at the server) application; loading into a web based existing context of a browser, a top-level page referencing a component library files including therein an API (application program interface) having therein a web-based OS (operating system) components, which are run/executed within the existing context of the browser; loading an application library file associated with the requested server-side application in accordance to the request, the application library file referencing the API executing the application library file, wherein the web based operating system components and the application library file provide functions of the server-side application within the browser as recited in the claims.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should
